GeoNetwork open source software from WFP & FAO

The WFP and the FAO recently launched a new and improved tool in the global fight against hunger and rural poverty--the GeoNetwork. GeoNetwork open source software uses satellite imagery, spatial databases and interactive maps from FAO, WFP, and others to track the causes of food shortages in developing countries. The GeoNetwork enables free and easy data and information sharing between different FAO Units, other UN Agencies, NGOs and other institutions. FAO GeoNetwork website: www.fao.org/geonetwork/srv/en/main.home. WFP GeoNetwork website: http://ram.wfp.org/geonetwork/srv/en/main.home.