Land Tenure and Resource Access in West Africa

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This paper forms one of a series of outputs from a broader programme of work undertaken jointly by the UK and French governments on Land Tenure and Resource Access in West Africa. The main objectives of this programme have been to:

- enhance the research capacity of West African researchers and their institutions;
- foster collaboration between anglophone and francophone countries of West Africa;
- further the level of knowledge on land tenure and resource access issues in West Africa and their implications for policy and practice contributing to sustainable development;
- make such information accessible at all levels through publications, workshops and policy documents, thereby nourishing debate within the West African region regarding the options and implications of different tenure policies for equity, productivity, sustainable livelihoods and social justice.

The programme has been jointly financed by the UK's Department for International Development (DFID) and the French Ministère des Affaires Étrangères. Activities have been led by the Groupe de Recherche et d'Échanges Technologiques (GRET), Paris and the Drylands Programme, International Institute for Environment and Development, London. The preparation of this paper has been funded by DFID and aims to feed into the broader debate within DFID regarding land rights and tenure in Sub-Saharan Africa.

Judy Longbottom and Camilla Toulmin, IIED, commissioned the research paper and provided comments and editorial support.

We are also grateful to many key informants, including traditional authorities, researchers and public land administrators who gave us an audience and frankly discussed issues from their own perspective.
